CONGRESS RECONVENES

Congress is back on the job in the Nation's Capitol after a 10-week vacation with the "folks back home."

It is a different Congress. Not that the personnel of Congress has changed but the attitude of its constituents has—and therein lies the difference.

For ten weeks the lawmakers have been listening to what the people had to say. And the people said plenty. The war, bringing with it heavy taxation and many restrictions, has made the average American acutely conscious of government—especially the Federal government. And while the "man on the street" is quite willing to pay his share of the war and to accept whatever restrictions are necessary, he has made it plain to his congressman that care should be used in government spending, and that some of the restrictions are needlessly severe.

Many people are suspicious that government bureaus are using the war as an excuse to regulate almost every detail of their private lives, and that an attempt will be made by theorists to continue them even after the emergency is over.

It all adds up to the fact that the American people as a whole are undoubtedly doing more real thinking today than ever before. And it is none too soon. Too long has the "government" been some far-off, vaporous entity that always had unlimited cash to spend. Too long has there been the feeling that it didn't make much difference what Congress or the other branches of government did, because it didn't seem to affect us much, anyway.

But all that is changing now. It has required an earth-shaking war with all its jarring effects to knock much of the complacency out of us. But this change has come—that's the important thing. And Congress knows it.

QUICK, WATSON, THE NEEDLE!

The severities of war are pressing ever harder upon the men of America. First it was gas rationing—then food rationing—now it's the laundry.

The latest decree from OPA eliminates all "frills." What does that mean? Well, it means that if you're single you had better start looking around for somebody to sew buttons on your shorts—or learn to use the needle yourself. Apparently the OPA considers buttons on your shorts as "frills," because the laundry can't sew them on for you anymore.

Furthermore, collars on your shirts will either be done in the droopy, nonchalant style or resharpened with a standard grade of starch. There will be no in-between degree.

Anyway, we hope "it all comes out in the wash."

• You aren't exactly sick,
you insist—

and yet you are not really well. Let's call it a condition of "half-way health." And right now, when there's a world at war, and every ounce of productive effort is sorely needed, any illness is a luxury that none of us can possibly afford!

Why don't you take a practical, common-sense step now to get well—really well. Go call on a good medical Doctor. Give him all the facts; let him prescribe for you.

Yes, of course, when you have the Doctor's prescription, we'll gladly compound it for you—expertly. That is our business, you know!

Thoughts on the care and use of meat

WITH so little time available, I've had to cut my food shopping trips down to about three times a week. And I've found this presents some real problems in how to keep meats at home, and what kinds to buy so they will keep. Under rationing, of course, we have to be extra careful.

I've discovered one simple little formula. When I shop, I buy a quick-cooking meat for use that very evening and a longer-cooking, good-keeping variety for the next night or two.

Sometimes, when they're available, I get chops or ground meat to use right away. At the same time, I get lamb or beef ribs for long cooking, and wieners or sausage to keep.

Any meat that I want to keep for a day or two without cooking, like beef, pork, veal or lamb, I handle this way: After unwrapping it, I lay meat on pieces of waxed paper and fold it over so ends are open and pop it right into the refrigerator. I've learned that if it's wrapped too tightly, it may spoil.

Some, I know, store meat in the freezing unit of their refrigerator, or else have a special container for meat. I've tried putting meat right in the freezing unit, because it keeps well for a long time there—but I had a terrible time getting it out again unless I defrosted the refrigerator and of course it must be thawed before using.

I've been preparing meat for our dinners in a variety of ways, recently. Here are two of the ideas I have found especially good:

Kidney Sauté—Allow 2 lamb kidneys per person. Wash and slice thinly; flour heavily; sauté in bacon drippings or other shortening until brown. Add water to cover; season to taste with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Cook until tender over low heat, about 20 minutes. Serve over hot toast, biscuits, rice or noodles.

Oven Barbecued Ribs—Use breast of lamb or pork spare ribs allowing about a half lb. per person. Place whole or half rack of ribs in pan, meat-side up, and cook 1 hour to 1 hour and a half in a 400° F. oven or until brown and done. Turn when half-way through cooking and season with salt and pepper.

STEP UP YOUR MEALS WITH SAUCES is the title of my article in this week's Family Circle Magazine. I think you'll find some interesting ideas in it. Your free copy is ready at your Safeway.

MILLO'S MARKET

6315 MISSION ST.

What can I do?

We believe that nearly all Americans are convinced that, with all its drawbacks, a food rationing program is necessary for an equitable distribution of foods. We have only to remember the chaos which existed prior to rationing, when various lines were "bought out" at the stores.

To help make food rationing more workable, each American housewife or purchaser of food for the family unit, should do everything within her power to cooperate with retailers. An understanding of details of the program will do much to aid in daily shopping. Please remember that your food dealer does not make the regulations, but is charged with the responsibilities of carrying out a plan which rationing experts have decided is most helpful to the nation at large.

As Daly City's largest food center, Milo's Market brings you complete shopping service in one big, modern, deluxe market. At the "Top of the Hill" in the center of Daly City's business district, our one-stop convenience can be a real aid in these busy times.

Strongly competitive prices, made possible by our really big-store operations, reign in all departments. Featured are nationally famous brands of staple and fancy groceries at rock-bottom prices; complete selection of all kinds of fresh fish and poultry; and a meat department whose tremendous volume assures a wide choice of cuts and kinds of fresh and cured meats at low prices.

"Gardening" is a pleasure in our enormous section set aside for fresh fruits and vegetables, with racks and racks of every produce item in season. All are daily-fresh, hand-selected from the best at the growers' markets.
